USED CLOTHING FOR THE BELGIANS

If you have an extra overcoat or woolen garment of any kind for man, woman or child, hanging in your closet after September 30, it will haunt you for what it might have done to clothe a needy Belgian this winter. Dig it up now, and be ready to send it to the Red Cross.

In response to a call from Herbert Hoover, head of the commission for relief in Belgium, who says that 10,000,000 Belgians depend upon America for their winter's clothing, the American Red Cross has promised to collect 5000 tons of used clothing. The collection will be done by Red Cross chapters September 23 to 30.

In addition to used clothing, piece goods, blankets and baby clothes are included in the call. Only garments of strong material can be accepted. Donors are reminded that it will not be necessary to mend the garments as the repair work will give employment to thousands of destitute women in the occupied regions.

Henry P. Davidson, chairman of the war council of the American Red Cross in his appeal for a hearty response from the American people says:

"Every household in the land has some spare clothing, worn or outgrown, of little value here, but desperately needed by the destitute there. They have been reduced to fashioning garments from flour sacks, old blankets, sheets, and tablecloths, which have now almost disappeared, and shoes from scraps of carpets and jute sacks. Today it costs $8 to have a pair of shoes resoled. For bedding, sacks stuffed with dry leaves or moss serve as mattresses. Everywhere the need for blankets is tremendous. Hospitals and other institutions suffer for want of sheets. In some places whole families sleep together to share a single blanket. We cannot purchase what is needed 'but you can give it.'"

FINEST PINON WOOD FOR DELIVERY IN TONOPAH

J. Grant Crumley is advertising 200 cords of fine pinon wood for sale with immediate delivery. This is in line with the recommendation of the government which urges everybody to use wood in place of coal for fuel. This wood comes from Silver Bow and is the finest ever seen in this market. The price in four cord lots delivered free is only $15. Orders may be telephoned to Ray Piercy at the power office.

Keep Him From Your Home

IF THE HUN WINS

You won't have to buy Liberty Bonds

The climax of a recent thrilling story of a German who masqueraded as a British officer is the exposure of the spy through his typically Teuton touch in kicking the face of a servant whom he had knocked down.

"You might have knocked him down and been British," said the man who turned him over to the firing squad, "but not the rest of it."

Myriad undisputable instances of Hun bestiality unrestrained show him to have exhausted all imaginable possibilities of brutishness in his treatment of his war victims.

Oversubscribe your quota of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds and help throw the German army back across the Rhine where its own people may have a taste of its "will to power."

HOME BEER POPULAR WITH SPOKANE BUYERS

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 20.—Half a dozen large breweries in Spokane were closed January 1, 1916, according to law, but in their places hundreds of small individual breweries have sprung up.

Today practically every drug store in Spokane is prepared to furnish patrons with a printed formula for making home-made beer, and the hardware stores of the city are reaping a small fortune from the sale of bottling equipment.

Even on the formulas furnished by the drug stores is printed the name of a dealer and grower of hops and patrons are solicited to send for that portion of the composition with which to make the "home-made brew," which, incidentally, may contain more "kick" than the beer turned out by the large breweries.

Some hardware stores of Spokane, in bidding for the trade on bottles, bottle caps and equipment with which to put on the caps, have arranged large displays in their windows.

The bottle caps are being sold for 10 cents a dozen, or three dozen for 25 cents, and, although the price is high, one dealer declared that his store has sold upward of four gross a day for the last couple of weeks and that the sale was improving steadily.

The machine to put the caps on the bottles is sold for $5, although a different style, which is used with an ordinary hammer, but which the hardware dealer kindly explains is "not nearly as fast as the $5 machine," is also displayed.

Customers are warned about not making the beer too "hard," as it is liable to blow up the bottle and injure the maker, since it ferments rapidly.

To date the police authorities have taken no steps in the matter of "home-made beer," although the law is plain that beer containing more than 1 per cent alcohol cannot legally be kept in the state.

IN THE LINE

An auto load of Dunkards came into Winchester one day last week, and it was noticeable that the motor of their machine was "knocking." They stopped in front of the undertaker's establishment of O. O. Fraze, which is next door to the Hecker & Doyel garage. One of the men left the machine and went into the undertaker's office, thinking it was the office of the garage.

"I would like for you to look at my motor and see what's wrong with it," said the man.

"It isn't dead, is it?" queried the undertaker.

"No, it is still running," said the Dunkard, whereupon the undertaker replied: "If it isn't dead we can't do anything for it. This is an undertaker's shop." The man was then directed to the nearby garage—Indianapolis News.

Rhetorical Emphasis.

"Don't you think there is too much tendency to profanity in conversation?"

"Yes. And it's going to be worse. I understand the government is going to open up more censors. And that means more mules."

"The law provides that home-made beer must not contain more than 1 per cent alcohol and that it must be for the personal use of the maker and cannot be sold or given away," declared R. R. Christian, a deputy in the internal revenue office, today.

"This office will gladly take up any cases where there is a violation of the law."

WARD TO TRANSLATE BIBLE

Considerable Amount of Ingenuity Required to Make Words Fit Savage Knowledge.

How much do you suppose an Eskimo knows about an olive? Or a Hottentot about cherubim? Or a cannibal about the Holy Ghost?

That's why the men and women who translate the Bible into pagan languages have to use a greater amount of ingenuity and imagination than anything else, observes a writer in the World Outlook.

It must have been a very pleasant person who finally suggested to the mingled relief and amusement of the tired workers, that "the lamb of God" might just as well be translated "the little seal of God," in the Eskimo Bible. Eskimo children have the same tenderness toward the funny little things with their mournful-eyes and soft fur that other children have toward baby sheep.

The Eskimo Bible was one of the most difficult to translate, and has just been finished after 250 years of work. Of course, to a half frozen, fur-clad people, living in igloos—or is it harpoons?—and surrounded by polar bears and walrus, it is next to impossible to translate the story of the bright colored, sun-drenched holy land. The language of a northern people is necessarily lacking in dozens of words and phrases, and, too often, even ideas.

But Bible translating is like Greek grammar—there's an exception to every rule. The Zulus live in a country as warm and tropical as the holy land on the pleasantest of days, but the Zulu Bible has offered about as many difficulties as any respectable task has a right to offer.

In the first place, the earliest translation was made by more than thirty people working independently. Despite its inaccuracy and inconsistency it was extremely popular among the natives; it even shaped Zulu thought so completely that every paragraph of the Zulu newspaper teems with Bible vocabulary. But it was inaccurate. Many of the mistakes were, of course, extremely amusing. The translators found to their surprise that instead of crossing the Red sea and the Jordan dry shod, the children of Israel went over thirsky. And a literal translation of the promise that enemies should melt away before them, was discovered to mean in Zulu idiom that their enemies should be as happy as men full of beer.

In 1901 a new translation was begun. There was still many difficulties. How were the translators, for instance, to describe as in Isaiah 3, 18-24, the entire wardrobe of a Jewess at the height of the nation's civilization to the Zulu debutante who in the heaviest winter season wears little more than a string of scarlet beads?

Rhetorical Emphasis.

"Don't you think there is too much tendency to profanity in conversation?"

"Yes. And it's going to be worse. I understand the government is going to open up more censors. And that means more mules."

NEVADA EXCEEDED DRAFT ESTIMATE

Registration returns from all counties in the state received by Adj. Gen. Sullivan show that the provost marshal general's estimate of the number of men of draft age in Nevada who would register on September 12 was nearly 1000 short. The registration by counties and the estimated registration follows:

STATE ASSESSORS BOARD

The board of assessors, who have been in session the past week, have not completed their work. The committee on real and personal property has about completed its work, and it is likely that considerable discussion will follow this report. The committee on mines is ready for action. It is possible that the board will complete its work by the end of the week.

DIVORCED FROM RECRUITING OFFICER FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Jack Smith was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Averill and allowed to resume her maiden name of Rose Floyd. She left for San Francisco this morning. The marriage will be remembered as one of the romances of the early days of the war when Private Jack Smith appeared here in charge of the recruiting station in the Bank block and, in the course of a short time became engaged to Miss Floyd. The charge was desertion and cruelty.

SOUTHERN INDIANS FAIL TO REGISTER FOR DRAFT

Sheriff W. H. Thomas is out visiting the Ash Meadows district with the object of finding why certain Indians failed to register for the draft. He was accompanied on his trip by Harry Atkinson, district attorney, who is looking up a water case. Both officials are expected back tomorrow.

GAVE PENNY UNDOE CREDIT

Story Will Please Those Who Have Small Belief That Pocket Pieces Bring Luck.

"Superstition is a relic of the dark ages," observed one of the supposedly wise men, "and it has no place on the battle ground of modern thought."

"I don't believe in planting potatoes on Good Friday, nor in seeing the moon over my left shoulder. I think that a fisherman is foolish if he spits on his bait, and I don't believe in walking around a stump three times to change my luck. Neither am I afraid of black cats that cross my path. In my opinion all such things are nonsense. They are in the same class with that old idea about hanging a horseshoe over the door. That's an old, played-out scheme, and it never was worth a whoop."

"There's only one thing in the whole lot of lucky or unlucky omens that works out in every detail, and that's the idea of finding a penny and keeping it for good luck."

"About three months ago I picked up an old green penny that was lying in the gutter. I checked it in the match pocket of my coat, and I have kept it there ever since."

"Before I took to carrying the penny I couldn't turn my hand over without using money, and ever since then I've made money at every turn of the road. That's why I know it is lucky."

"Let me look at your lucky penny?" remarked a bystander. "I'd just like to touch the thing."

The penny-wise man ran two fingers into his match pocket, and as he did so he exclaimed:

"By cracker! I'll bet I've lost the damned thing. In fact, I know I have. I sent this coat to the dry cleaner the day after I found the penny, and I forgot to remove it from the pocket."

Moral: Prosperity seems to be, in some measure, psychological.

SCHOOL TO UNTRAIN DISCIPLINE OF ARMY

SEATTLE, Sept. 19.—British Columbia needs "untraining" schools for soldiers, according to Canadian visitors here.

"We find returned soldiers so filled with discipline that many have lost all their initiative," asserted J. G. Grant, a Vancouver box manufacturer. "We need a school to take away some of the discipline and return some of the soldiers' natural initiative."
